“An exciting journey that takes your team across the world completing tasks of varying levels. You will need to muster all your creative and strategic skills as time is against you. Which team will complete the journey and win the challenge?”

Overview:

This amazing story started in London on one of the cloudy days in the autumn of 1872. Phileas Fogg was a member of the Reform Club and this was where this affair began. Many of the most honourable members gathered in the great saloon of the club that day. The conversation turned to an article in the daily telegraph, stating it was now possible to travel around the World in 80 Days. So the adventure begins...

How it works:

Each team is issued with a pack which includes 80 challenges of varying difficulty. Each challenge represents a country. There are varying creative tasks, team challenges, conundrums, construction and even some acting and dancing! Teams complete the tasks and earn Airmiles as they go, ranging from 10 to 50 Airmiles. But time is against them and a strategy is required to maximise earnings.

The team with the most Airmiles wins!

Results:

With more challenges than can be done within the time, will the team use their time and resources to the best of their advantage – of course they will...won't they?
